me: I got to do an interview with my hero, the creator of Dwarf Fortress, and it's all thanks to your proclivity for simulated rape Selena: well that's awesome, i'm very delighted to have been your enzyme me: anywho, I'm going to Texas and Mexico for an extended stay but will probably be back in August for book launch, we should go get a drink then Selena: OK. why are you going to texas/mejico me: my uncle's dying, also supposed to go hunting with my dad next month, wanted to hang in East Texas with my friend for a few weeks to start my third book with fewer distractions, want to go to Austin for a week to see a bunch of other people, need to see my mom, and thinking of moving back to Mexico afterwards for at least a few months so that I can concentrate on my media reform project and other things without pressure of having to write a lot of crap for money, and Mexico is far cheaper than most U.S. locales Selena: that makes sense.
